Public transport simple vocabulary

“TRASA ZMIENIONA” means that the regular route has been changed. Try to avoid these in general. Changes are often due to construction works that last for a couple of days.

“ZJAZD DO ZAJEZDNI” means the vehicle is going to the depot. This sign will show up similarly to “trasa zmieniona” on the front of the bus. This also means that the route has been changed.

Emergency phone numbers

112: General emergency number

999: Ambulance

998: Fire Brigade

997: Police

Using mobile phones: remember to dial the local code before the number, for example: 22 - 997 to call the police in Warsaw. Emergency calls from phone boxes are free of charge.

If you do not know the local code, dial the general emergency number for mobile phones: 112. The operator will request the appropriate emergency unit.

We recommend using direct emergency numbers in the case of danger (997, 999, 998) because in some areas the general emergency number (112) still does not work properly.

Polish customs

In 2012 former Polish Prime Minister Donald Tusk kissed Angela Merkel's hand. Many tried to explain this event in a variety of ways. However, including the cultural context is key here. Therefore, we feel obligated to describe a few of Polish norms of behavior. First and foremost, Polish men tend to show respect to women in numerous ways: you can be let in first when entering a room/building; you can be approached to be kissed on the hand which is exactly what the Primer Minister did (although this custom disappears you may still see that amongst older generation); you can expect help when need to lift something heavy and you can expect that a man will help you to put on your coat.

Also, Poland is a very hierarchical country so the proper way of behavior when you meet someone for the first time is to name your partner Mr or Mrs/Ms.

Above all, Poland has a very specific attitude towards rules and regulations -they are conventions which should be treated reasonably. Not in an absolute but in a circumstantial way. Regulations may be disobeyed or suspended if they cause no damage or distress to other people.
